FUEGO PRODUCTS AWARDED TWO GOOD DESIGN AWARDS

New Fuego 02 Electric and Modular Outdoor Kitchen Receive Top Honors for Design and Functionality

SAN FRANCISCO, January 14, 2009—The Chicago Athenaeum awarded the Fuego 02 Electric and Fuego Modular two esteemed Good Design Awards in the 2008 Household Products category. Fuego North America designs and develops luxury outdoor grills and kitchens that have revolutionized outdoor entertaining.

The Museum's annual Good Design Award program honors the most innovative and cutting-edge industrial, product and graphic designs produced around the world. The Fuego 02 and Fuego Modular were recognized for their smart design aesthetic, innovative technology and functional attributes.

“It is an honor to receive this prestigious award and be recognized alongside leading brands in the design community,” says Alex Siow, Fuego CEO. “The Good Design Award is in line with our commitment to innovation, design and technology, which embodies the Fuego brand.”

The Fuego 02 Electric grill takes modernism to the top with teak and slate countertops, hidden storage and a removable cord. Featuring a fully retractable lid, modular accessory system and cast iron grill grate, the all-electric grill simply plugs into a standard 110-volt outlet and is a smart alternative for small outdoor spaces that may prohibit gas or charcoal grilling.

The Fuego Modular is a fully customized outdoor kitchen that is designed to be the centerpiece of the outdoor entertainment experience. The Fuego Modular starts with an aluminum frame that can accommodate up to six modules with grills, burners, warming drawers and storage.

The Fuego line of outdoor grills have received international recognition, including the iF Product Design Award, Chicago Athenaeum Good Design Award and IDEA (International Design Excellence Award).
